Out Of

Different strokes for different folks

Out of the Ordinary? Yesree. New wave, punk, mod, and being "just plain different" describes this year at THS. Turlock went under a lot of changes. Many people were experimenting with different clothing, hairstyles, and new personalities.

These changes were brand new to Turlock. Opinions about the innovative fashions and hairstyles brought on varied views: some were shocked, others disapproved, or didn't even care. Many thought it was just plain great. Shannon Gardner, replied, "I don't think Turlock's ready for it! It's really not better, just different. I don't look down on people who dress conservatively and I don't expect people to look down on me," stated Mary Khanderish, dressed in a long black skirt, mini skirt, three dimensional green fluorescent ear rings, orange lipstick and fingernail polish. Bobby Richardson commented, wearing fluorescent green socks and who dyes his hair orange, "Clothes don't really make the person, it's what's inside that matters". The majority of people are still the same, much too traditional and too straight. People often look down on you just because you dress differently, I don't look down on other people, but so many are afraid they are going to be rejected if they change. I would much rather see people being themselves: Loose and Relaxed."

Some parents disapprove of the new changes. One student even dresses normally and then changes her clothing when she arrives at school.

Music, musicians, and celebrities often influence teenagers. One student commented, "Everything influences you, if you are not influenced you are a total veg." These changes may be okay for them, because it's part of their lifestyles. But who is to say it's okay for students of Turlock. You decide.

1. Alfred Alij proves that he definitely has his own style about hair. He shaves his head every new season. 2. "Bad Rita" Machado acts out her impression of Roy George at last year's Gong show. 3. Tanya Cross and Cammie Summers show their loving affection for one another. 4,5. Theron Shamgoshian shows that he is no poor boy. 6. Tanya Geddes and her out of the ordinary friends have their own style of fun or lunch. 7. Christina and Cameron have a fun time on her birthday.

The Ordinary

Octoberfest Haunted Maze

Gummy bears, ginger cookies and rootbeer-chug-a-lug contest! The German club shared German culture with the foreign language class at its traditional Oktoberfest. "It was something everyone should take part in," exclaimed Tanya Mirza. The Turlock Turkey was a wild dance created by this club. The versatile German club even incorporated break dancers into this year's repertoire. "The best part about it was the break dancers, they were cool!" commented Bonnie Serna.

Another October tradition is our Haunted Maze created and performed by Donna Opel's drama classes. Working many long, strenuous hours, the drama class never falters in giving THS students a good scare. The cow's head, the coffin and the dead bodies jumping out at you stirred up all your insides as one tour continued. "We always complain about the hard work, but in the long run, it's well worth it," stated fourth year drama student Shannon Gardner. Besides their enjoyment the drama club benefits monetarily. The proceeds allow them to put on productions later on in the year.

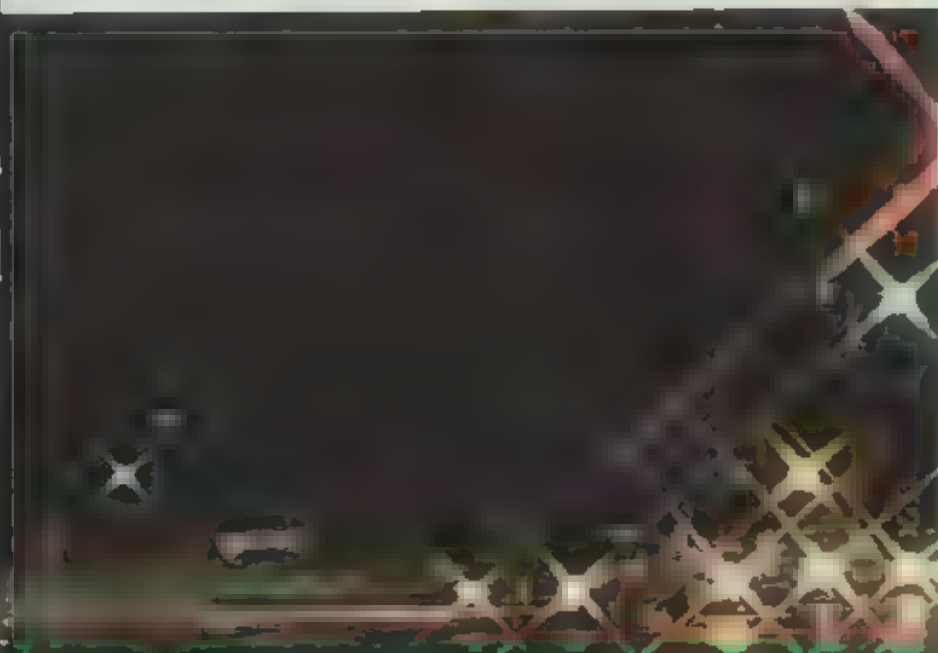

1) Tonia Geddes robs out on Oktoberfest. 2) Jason Ory portrays Dracula. 3) Dr. Mike Ross performs an amputation on Amber Markiles. 4) Gene Tosi entertains THS students. 5) Sandy Tobin frightens Haunted Maze visitors. 6) Carrie Grey is volunteered for clean up crew after Oktoberfest.

CRUISING

1) Smiling for the camera, Shannon Poe & friend cruise the strip. 2) Breakers perform in front of Expressions. 3) Anita McOmrook and friends kick up their heels on a Friday night. 4) Matt Hicks & Tamara Wolk transpire the ATC on Main. 5) Louis Nasimbeni is enjoying the view of the oncoming traffic. 6) Former Turlock High graduate Carol Mee soaks in the Youngdale's parking lot.

Constructive, Or Indifferent?

Good, bad or indifferent, cruising has been around for a long, long time and is definitely here to stay. On Friday and Saturday nights, from Jander Avenue at Youngdale to 1st Bank of America Main Street in Turlock is the place to be. Attracting people from as far away as Dos Palos, Los Banos, Newman, and Patterson, Turlock has become a hot spot in the valley for cruisers of all walks of life.

Cruising is a constructive way to socialize in a dead town," stated resident "King of Cruise" Louie Nasamento.

"It's better than staying home... and you get to meet college men," commented Sara Jones during an interview with the Alert staff.

"You get to meet women," stated one of Turlock High's more avid cruisers, Don Mills.

"It all seems to be a terrible waste of time and gas," commented yearbook mastermind Randy Hum, after a photo-taking session on Main Street.

Breaking the Monotony

Music is a universal language that transcends cultural boundaries and brings people together. In the heart of the community, a vibrant scene of musical performance is unfolding. A group of young women, dressed in traditional white and gold costumes, are captured in a dynamic dance pose. Their movements are fluid and energetic, reflecting the rhythm of the music. The background is filled with the soft glow of stage lights, creating a warm and inviting atmosphere. The audience, though not clearly visible, can be imagined as a crowd of onlookers, their attention captivated by the performance. This moment is a celebration of tradition and talent, a testament to the power of music to unite and inspire.

The performance is a testament to the dedication and skill of the young women. They have spent countless hours practicing their routines, perfecting every step and pose. The costumes, which are both traditional and modern, add to the visual appeal of the performance. The music, a blend of traditional and contemporary sounds, provides a perfect backdrop for their movements. The overall effect is one of harmony and beauty, a true reflection of the community's rich cultural heritage. As the performance continues, the energy in the room grows, and the audience's appreciation is evident. This is more than just a show; it is a celebration of the community's identity and a showcase of its future stars.

There were many people at the event, and everyone had a good time. The decorations were beautiful, and the food was delicious. It was a very successful event, and we were all very happy to be there.

Knowledge Is Power

"What you don't know is more apt to hurt you than what you do know. Library is a place to come and find ideas and learn about things," said Mrs. Cone, librarian. Mrs. Cone finds her job rewarding and enjoyable. She said, "Turlock High is a good place to be. There is a very good student body here."

"High school students are my favorite," commented Mrs. Carlson, librarian clerk. Mrs. Carlson told about an out-of-the-ordinary thing that happened to her. "I opened the doors and an enormous owl flew in. I tried to get Nat (Mrs. Cone) to pick it up, but she wouldn't do it. I think it was injured or lost. After a while the owl left by itself."

Mrs. Reisenauer, who is in charge of the textbook room, likes her job very much but finds it exasperating when students come to the bookroom without a request form, don't have a pencil to sign their book cards and don't write their names in their books. Many of the students don't realize that she is also in charge of the Audio Visual Department so when she is working there the bookroom is closed and they are upset. She feels that THS has a really good staff and student body and can't think of any place she would rather work.

Adventures! On the School Bus?

For many students, the school bus is more than just a mode of transportation. It's a place where friendships are formed, adventures are shared, and memories are made. The bus becomes a second home, a place where students can relax and enjoy the ride to and from school. Many students look forward to the bus as a chance to catch up on the latest news and share their experiences with their friends. The bus is a place where everyone belongs, and it's a place where the adventures of the school year truly begin.

New Honor Class System: Controversial?

...ing challenge" explained Mr. Priddy, who asked how the test for the new English honor class. This year, new honor classes were meeting more often than expected. Juniors who had honor classes seemed to enjoy the extra time, were getting B's instead of A's. A few people commented that the new system was fair because it didn't stress them. The classes are the same size, but they're more strict. The point GPA is higher, which would justify comments like "Wah! However, honor class teachers explained that the classes are much more difficult than the old ones. Mr. Priddy said, "In particular, the students are more demanding, expect much more out of the teachers, and for the grading, we have to be fair." "I don't think the system is fair at all," said somewhere. He added, "But I don't think anything is perfect."

Don't look too closely

A RECENTLY published study by a team of researchers from the University of California, Berkeley, and the University of Texas at Austin, suggests that the way we look at a person's face can affect our perception of their personality. The study, which was published in the journal Personality and Social Psychology Bulletin, found that people who were asked to look at a person's face for a short period of time were more likely to judge that person as being more trustworthy and more honest than people who were asked to look at the same face for a longer period of time. The researchers suggested that this might be because people who look at a face for a short time are more likely to focus on the overall shape and features of the face, while people who look at a face for a longer time are more likely to focus on the details of the face, such as the eyes and mouth. This finding has important implications for the way we interact with others, as it suggests that the way we look at someone can affect our perception of their personality. For example, if we look at someone's face for a short time, we might be more likely to trust them and be more honest with them. However, if we look at someone's face for a longer time, we might be more likely to distrust them and be less honest with them. This finding also has implications for the way we design user interfaces, as it suggests that the way we design a user interface can affect the way we interact with it. For example, if we design a user interface that encourages users to look at it for a short time, we might be able to increase their trust in the interface and their willingness to use it. However, if we design a user interface that encourages users to look at it for a longer time, we might be able to decrease their trust in the interface and their willingness to use it. This finding is a reminder that the way we look at something can affect our perception of it, and that we should be aware of this when we interact with others and when we design user interfaces.

A Few Words about Our President:

When we think of our President, we think of a man who is very smart and very kind. He is the leader of our country and he makes sure that everyone is treated fairly. He is the one who signs the laws and he is the one who represents our country in the world. We all love our President and we are proud to be his citizens.

A Year Of Individuality

Fads or Fashions? That was the question. Unfortunately, very few could agree on the answer.

Short, shaved, or dyed hair, layered clothing, pants, jean jackets, or a pair of sunglasses just to look at them were fashions this year at THS.

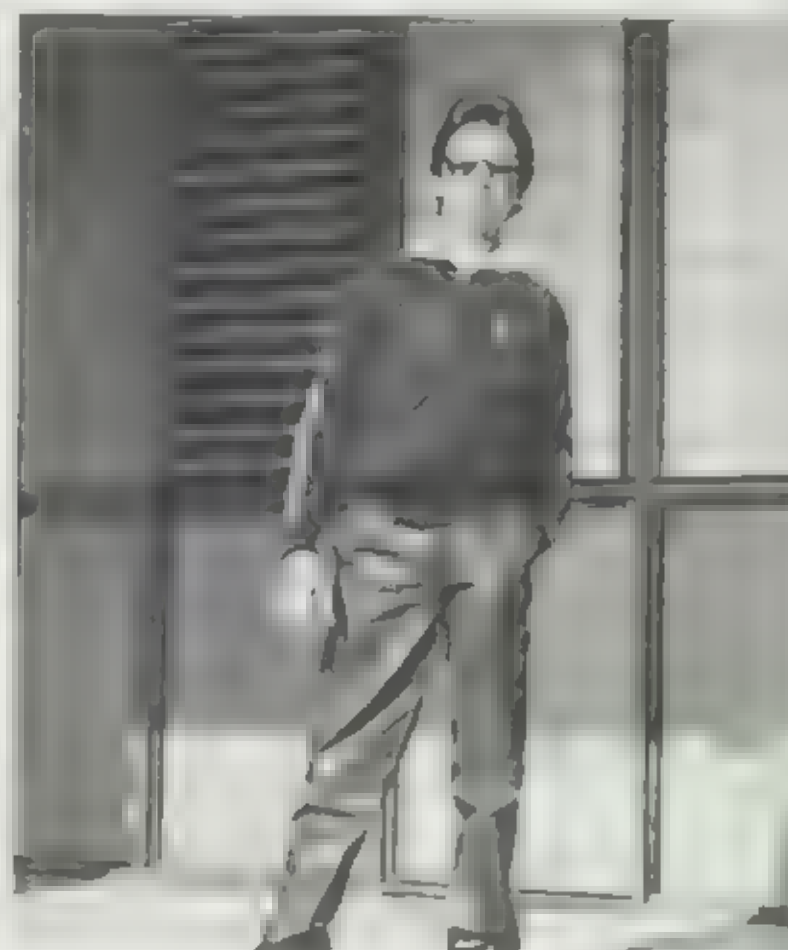

Instead of the casual laid back look, just about every one was trying to make a statement. Pants were a necessity for everyone. One of the biggest changes was the cropped look (or better known in the older days as peddle pushers). They came in a variety of colors and styles. Most had cuffs or were cropped at the ankle. Other varieties of pants were Levi's 501's. These were seen all over the campus. They were worn blue, faded, or the latest bleached out look.

Hair had a major change this year. Instead of the layered traditional look, kids were going for the one length, multicolored styles. Even having hair shaved closely to one's head seemed to be a style in which many students took part in.

Make up played a new role this past year. Students had two different eye colors, dark lips, pale faces, and eyeliner from the sides of their eyes to their hairline.

There were many different types of music. New wave, soul, hard rock, and rap all added some spice to the somewhat monotonous life of the modern teenager.

The trendy times are gone and now it is time to express your personality and true self in whatever fashion one desires. All in all, this year was a definite change from other years and because of it students realized, as Mickey Tabin stated, "It doesn't matter what you are like inside."

Students Against Drunk Driving

Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD) is a national organization that has been active for many years. It is a student-led organization that works to prevent drunk driving and its consequences. SADD has many chapters across the country, and they all work together to raise awareness and prevent drunk driving. SADD has many programs and activities that help to educate students about the dangers of drunk driving. SADD also has many resources available to students, including brochures, posters, and videos. SADD is a great organization for students who want to make a difference in their community. SADD is a great organization for students who want to make a difference in their community. Exchange for peace

Through the AFS exchange program, Nadia Babela spent her summer in Chile and experienced the intimate life and the culture of another country. "It was a great experience! The country was beautiful, everyone was very nice and friendly. They were all very entertaining. I didn't really have any time to myself to be homesick. Overall, it was just a neat experience. It helped me grow," Nadia commented.

American Field Service helps students to go abroad and foreign students to come to Turlock. "AFS is a special organization which promotes better understanding of the world," explained Mrs. Peterson, adviser. The purpose of the club is to establish mutual understanding through the exchange program. The members remain active by having fund-raisers to help send students abroad.

As Turlock sent its students abroad, it received two students, Timm Wersing from Germany and Brad Daley from Australia. Unlike former foreign students who had language problems, Timm spoke English fluently. Timm seemed to enjoy their stay here. "The people are very nice to me. My family is very nice. There's a lot of spirit at Turlock High which I like, but the rules are quite strict," commented Brad. Comparing Turlock to Germany, Timm replied, "German students are a lot more into fashion. Here in Turlock, there are a lot of people who are conservative. In Germany, they don't categorize like that. Everyone is an individual."

The candidates chosen to go abroad in '85 were Elizabeth Berg, Andrew Rice, Ilze Gotelli, and Ryan Brock.

Tales of Woe and Misery

As of February 6th the Alert '85 was hanging in the balance. The threat of it becoming the Alert '86 was upon us. With many spreads, (this being one of them) late, Mr. Hurth and his staff were really feeling the pressure. "I love pressure! It's more like a fear incentive—it's very effective," stated Matthew Brasil. The staff had not missed one deadline until the new year. Tiffani Oyer explained, "If you miss one deadline you are way behind." To yearbook members, deadline week was pure hell. "Rhonda and I were always running around the week before with our heads cut off," exclaimed Giana Silva. Natalie Martin simplified deadlines by explaining, "Deadlines mean being four days late and flunking the class." Not quite, but close. "I don't like our deadline structure," stated Angela Ronson. "I like to take my own sweet time."

"Deadlines are not half our problem," commented Manuel Rocha. "The main problem with yearbook is that we don't have control to the central air and heat."

Besides the hassle of making deadlines, the staff was able to enjoy many good times. "Yearbook gives me a sense of accomplishment and independence," commented Robin Ryan. Barbara Heath said that yearbook was great because, "I like knowing that I'm involved in keeping the history of THS."

"We always helped each other and were like one big happy family," stated Lisa Mahurin. The venerable adviser Randy Hurth, explained "While I enjoy regular classroom teaching, yearbook gives me the opportunity to be on the same team as the students. Getting to know twenty-five wonderful people in a relaxed (if sometimes pressured) environment is a true high for me."

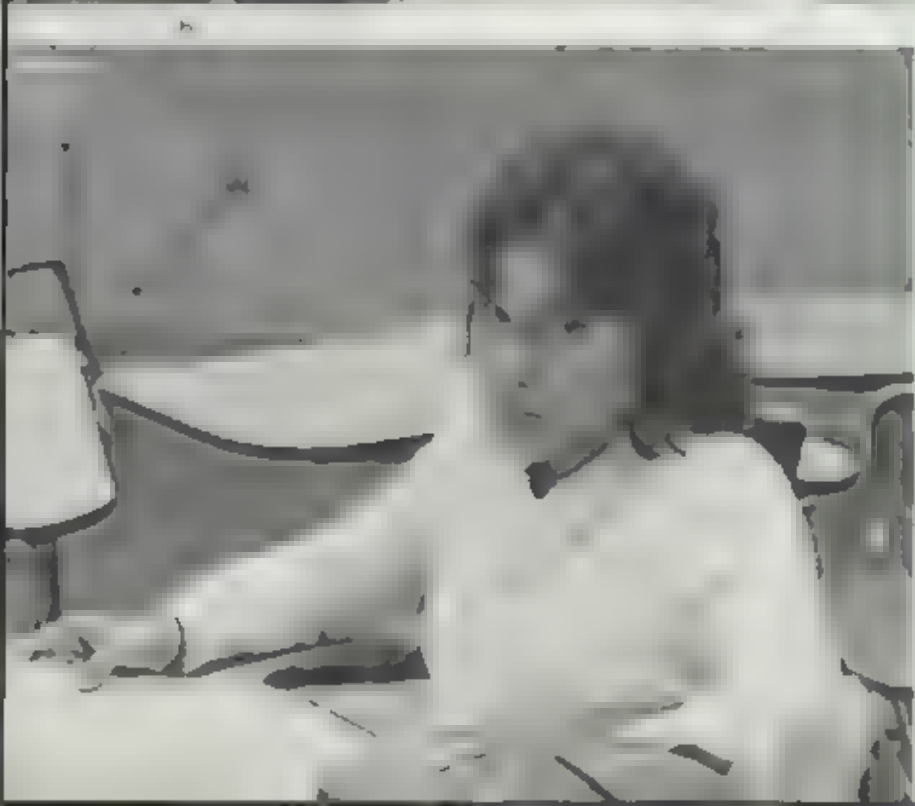

The staff all felt that they were truly lucky to have Mr. Hurth. Alicia Martini summed up the typical yearbook attitude to explain why they all subjected themselves to such madness by stating, "The best part of yearbook is the feeling of accomplishment when it's done." Khanh Cong, the exception to every rule, countered that opinion. "The best thing is Mr. Mochos, Robert McJob and Bill Boumann."

Work and No Play??

When the school year begins, many students are faced with the choice of working or playing. Some students choose to work, while others choose to play. The school year is a time of learning and growth, and it is important for students to find a balance between work and play. Working can be a good way to learn about the world and gain experience, but it can also be a source of stress and burnout. Playing can be a good way to relax and have fun, but it can also be a waste of time. The key is to find a balance that works for you. If you are a student who works, make sure you have time to play and relax. If you are a student who plays, make sure you have time to work and learn. The school year is a time of opportunity, and it is up to you to make the most of it.

What's at the end of the rainbow?

For many students, the end of the rainbow is a place of discovery and growth. It's a journey that begins with a single step and leads to a world of possibilities. The path is not always straight, but it is filled with challenges and triumphs. Each step taken brings the student closer to their dreams, and the end of the rainbow is just what they need.

The journey is long, but the rewards are great. It's about the process, not just the destination. Every day is a new opportunity to learn and grow. The end of the rainbow is a place where the student can truly shine and make a difference in the world.

Key Club-Working for You.

When I joined Key Club, I was a shy, nervous, and lonely person. The Key Club members made me feel like I belonged. They were friendly, outgoing, and helpful. They showed me how to make friends and how to be a good person. They also helped me with my schoolwork and my hobbies. I am now a confident and happy person, and I am grateful to the Key Club for everything they have done for me.

The Key Club members are always there for you. They are your friends, your supporters, and your role models. They are the people who make a difference in your life. Join the Key Club today and see how they can help you become the best person you can be.

Key Club is a group of students who work together to help each other and to make a difference in their community. They are the people who are always there for you, who are your friends, your supporters, and your role models. They are the people who make a difference in your life. Science Strives for New Heights

Science and engineering are reaching new heights in the 21st century. The challenges are great, but the rewards are even greater. The future is bright, and the possibilities are endless. We are on the verge of a new era of discovery and innovation. The future is now.

When they are not working, the scientists are often found in the laboratory, conducting experiments and analyzing data. They are always looking for the next big discovery.

There are many challenges in the field of science and engineering. But the rewards are worth the effort. The future is bright, and the possibilities are endless.

The world is full of wonder and mystery. There are many things we do not yet understand. But with the power of science and engineering, we can uncover the secrets of the universe.

Very Busy

From making posters to having secret pals Basketball Cheer and Songleaders give it their all to increase spirit for everyone. The year's squad was faced with many obstacles to overcome both on and off the court. "I think that it is a lot harder than people think," stated Robin Ryan about being a Turlock High songleader. When asked most girls commented that cheering is very time-consuming, but worth while. Being on one of the two squads gives them a chance to meet new people and go new places. The main goals this year for the cheer and song leaders were to give support to the guys on the team and to increase spirit at the basketball games.

The What . . . ??

What is the hoop group? Many people don't know. Well, Stephanie Hansen stated, "A hoop group is a group of people who keeps the statistics at a basketball game. To be in this, you have to be willing to give up a lot of your time and do a lot of work."

The reason why many of the people joined the hoop group was to get to know the game of basketball better, and sure enough, after watching all of those games, they really do learn the game well.

Well, the hoop group isn't all serious, though. You get to go to all of the games with the team and you can just really get into it.

Now, I guess you are wondering how you can get into the hoop group, right? Well, all you have to do is sign up for it, and you are chosen by either Mr. Culala (JV), or Mr. Smart (Varsity).

So, what's the hold-up? Get ready to sign up for next season.

Tender Moments

The first of the tender moments is the moment when the bride and groom are first seen to each other. It is a moment of pure joy and happiness that is often captured in a photograph. The bride is usually wearing a white dress and the groom is wearing a dark suit. They are both smiling and looking at each other. This is a moment that is often remembered for the rest of their lives.

Having High Expectations

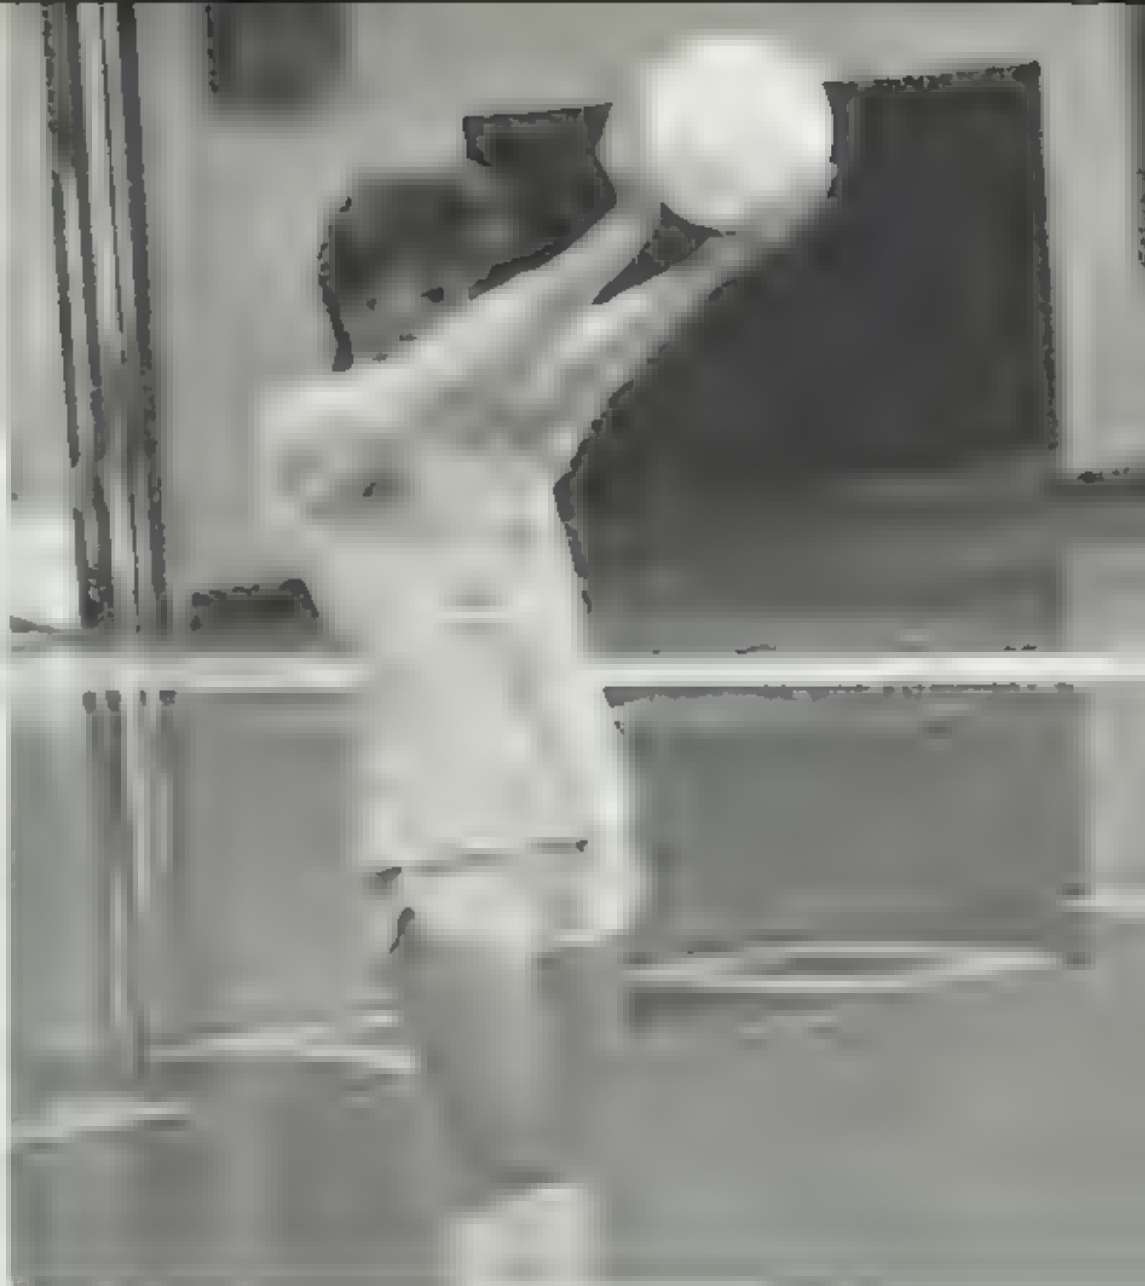

Having won their opening game against East Union, the JV volleyball team had high spirits and were ready for anything. Realizing that tough competition was to come from Arwater and Merced, the team practiced even harder than before. "We just started taking our practices serious but, we always take our games serious," stated Jodi Rogers. Shammie Pius commented, Dee Gilmore, our coach, learns our weak points and tries to improve them at practice." Most of the team agreed that it was a huge let down when they lost to Merced and they fell from first place to second place in C.C.C. league. "We were told that Merced was good and that's what lost us the game," explained Kelli Duree.

Dawn Denere was mentioned as a strong point of the team's success, with her excellent hitting and serving.

The team has a really good chance at CCC, especially since we have a lot of good volleyball players," said Down.

Dee Gilmore who has been the coach for 5 years said, "Each member benefits the team in their own unique way with a special skill and talent." Having many unique members Mrs. Gilmore is looking forward to next year being as successful as the 1985 team was.

Girls' Tennis Serves Up A Lot of Team Spirit

We laugh a lot, we cheer each other on. We have a lot of team spirit." That was Michelle Sallaberry's reaction to the 1984 girls tennis team.

The eleven returning players, some of whom had been playing since they were small children, backed up the team with experience. They also had a new tennis coach, Randy Groden. Who, in his first year of coaching at THS, led the team to six wins out of fifteen games compared to last year's two wins out of fifteen games. He made other teams realize that beating THS was going to be hard.

While Randy felt that the girls' weakspot was not having enough experience out on the court, the team felt their problem was themselves. For most, their worst opponent was themselves, not the other players. "My attitude and my temper are my problems," stated Peggy Dudley. Nancy Rajewich concurred. "My mental game makes it or breaks it for me. Fortunately, Randy helped me with it."

This year's team was a strong one, a close knit one, and a spirited one, and we wish them all the luck for next year's season.

THE TENNIS TEAM
The tennis team is made up of eleven players. They are all very talented and have been practicing hard for the season. They will be competing in several tournaments throughout the year. The team is coached by Mr. [Name] and they are all very dedicated to their sport.

Competition

The team's success was a result of their hard work and dedication. They had been training for months, and their efforts paid off. The team's coach, Mr. [Name], was proud of their achievement. The team's victory was a testament to their teamwork and perseverance. They had overcome many challenges, and their success was a source of pride for the entire school. Varsity Waterpolo Wins Hard Fight

The average water polo team spends half a year. There were various reasons to play water polo, healthy and have fun. Todd Kirker said, "I was excited to play water polo because I had never played it before." He said he was nervous at first, but he felt better after he had played a few times. He said he was happy to be on the team and to play water polo. He said he was happy to be on the team and to play water polo. He said he was happy to be on the team and to play water polo.

Girls' Waterpolo . . . Best Ever!!!

This year's girls' waterpolo team is the best ever at THS. Most of these girls have been together for three years and their work has paid off. The team is ranked number one where it has been for the past few years.

This year's starters have shown their talents and have been a good example to younger participants. Starters like Debbie Betrencourt, Melanie Yorsuya, Kathy Andrew, Kristin Maynard, Maria Dougherty, Anne Jones, Lisa Gillespie, and Minda Jensen have shown what waterpolo is all about to Susi Rubottom, Kristi Potter, and Angie Tanner, who are all hopefuls for next year's team.

"Our team gets along well," explained Melanie Yorsuya. They have to. "It's amazing to see how much they go through," stated one waterpolo's mother. "Keeping this good of a record keeps them hopping." "Hopping" might not be the word. Enduring long practices, games, tournaments, and lots of advice, these girls have learned a lot through this experience.

Pushing his girls to their fullest potentials, along with the help of dedicated, but sometimes uncovered managers, Monique Cummings and Patty Cajucum, Coach Nelson believes his girls to be the best. Along with the coach-to-athlete relationship, there is a true friendship and trust between Nelson and his players. Nelson enjoys his girls very much, and says the most out of the ordinary thing about them is, "Every time you thought you had heard it all, they come up with something new!"

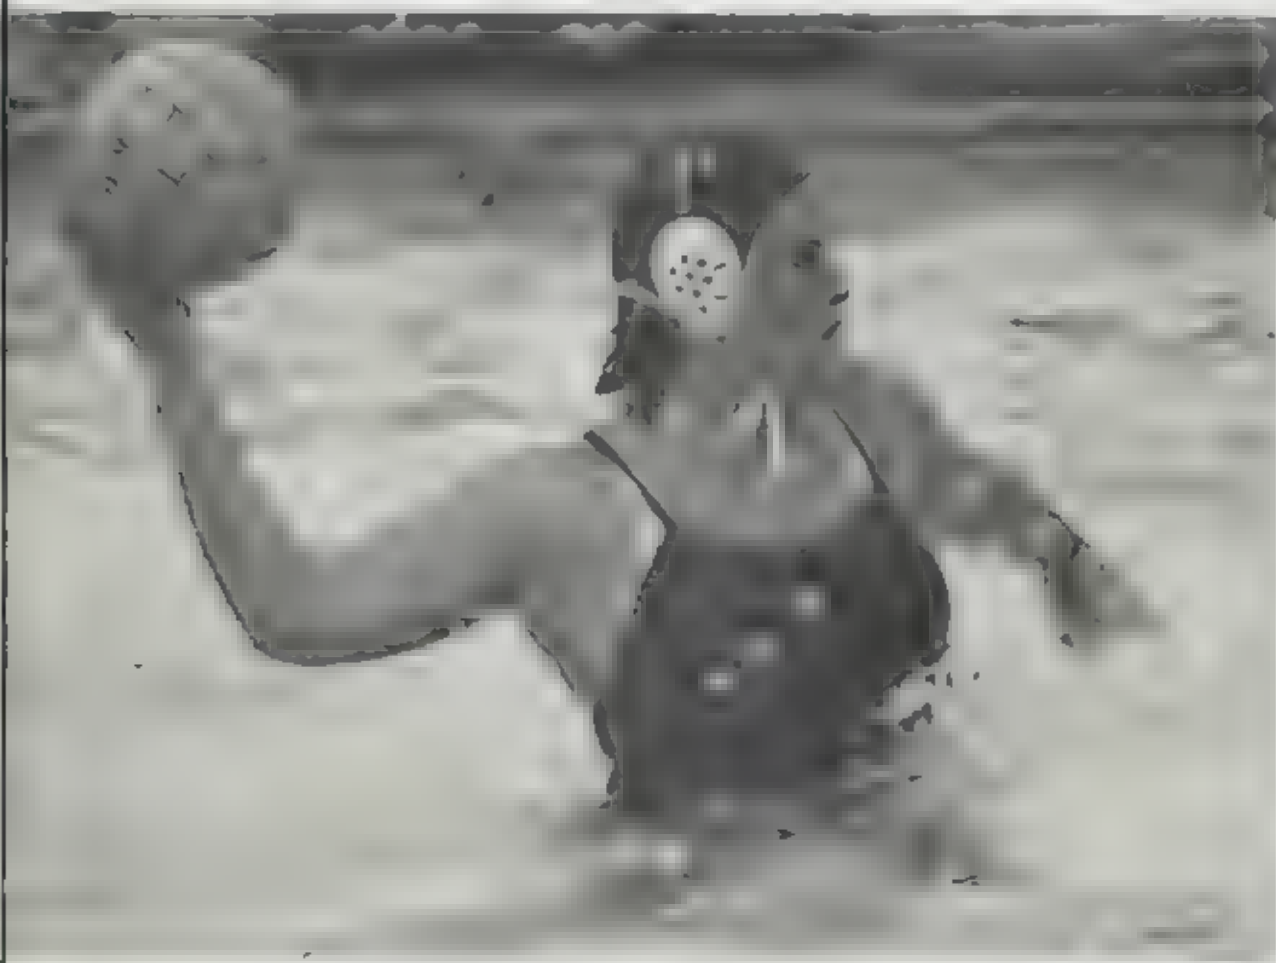

"Well, girls, you have really shown what team work is all about, so let's keep up the winning tradition!"

Starting Over

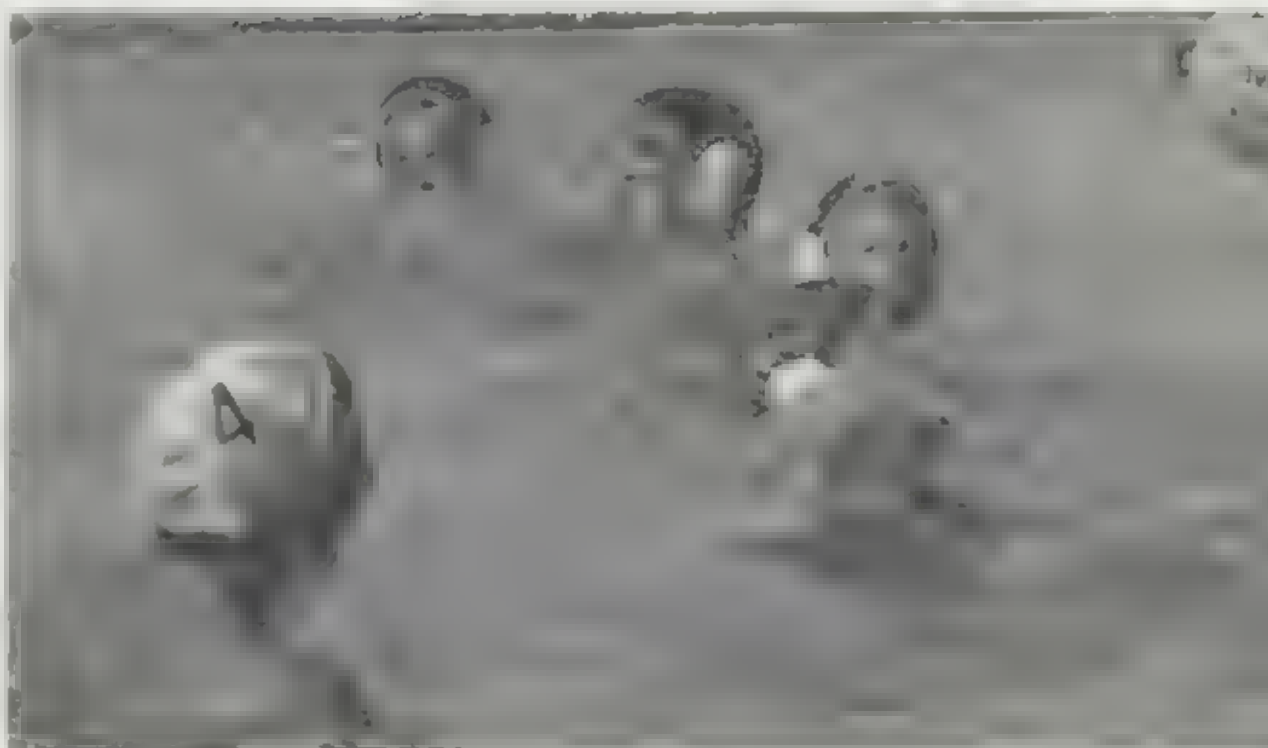

With a new coach the JV Water polo team finished strong at 7-3 in CCC play and 14-6 over all. "The team sure was different," stated David Chow. This year's team was mostly sophomores, which made the team more experienced and stronger.

The second place effort was brought on by key players such as David Newton, John McKnight, Ross Carkeer, and Steve Shamogorian, who also had a good year.

The team's toughest opponent was Merced even though Beyer beat them twice. But the JV pulled it in overtime by only one point.

The team liked their new coach, Hank Varona. But some of the players did not like getting up for the 6:00 a.m. practices.

"THE BALLET OF MODERN SPORTS"

How do tall young basketball players fit the expression stated by head coach Ron Smart, "Basketball is the ballet of modern sports"? Well, they have proved you can be tall and graceful. Here were the keys to success as shown by 6'6" Sophomore Kirk Johnson, 6'4" Sophomore Don Eldridge, 6'4" Ted Ayres, and 6'3" Junior John Law. Their height and youth "long hard 21" jump shot, learned by Don Eldridge, helped to lead the team with a 22-22 so far in league.

The players were not the only ones who worked hard. The coach, Ron Smart, worked just as hard. But it was also enjoyable for him as he sees the players grow and learn with the sport of basketball as he states, "Every year there is a different team-the kids change."

Girls' Basketball Conquers the Court

The girls' basketball team has been making a name for itself on the court. In their recent game, they showed great teamwork and skill, leading to a decisive victory. The team's captain, [Name], was a key player, scoring several points and leading the team in rebounds. The coach praised the team's effort and dedication, stating that they have a bright future ahead of them.

The team's success is a result of their hard work and practice. They have been working on their defense and offense, and it is paying off. The team is looking forward to their next game and hopes to continue their winning streak. The girls' basketball team is a source of pride for the school and the community.

Pressure Won't Stop Wrestling Crew

When the pressure is on, the wrestling crew at Santa Clara University knows exactly what to do. They have been through it all before, and they are ready to face the challenge again. The team has been working hard all year, and they are confident that they can win the state championship. They know that the pressure is on, but they are not letting it get to them. They are focused on their training and their goal.

Another winning season

Having the largest wrestling team in the Central California Conference (CCC) for the last seven years, the Turlock team scored with big wins over Lodi, Fresno State and other schools that just could not compete with wrestling against THS. Turlock has won the CCC for the last seven years.

Twenty 'walks' followed by more walks, stretches and endurance drills could be the reason that wrestlers are in such top condition.

The hardest thing about the hard conditioning to start the season is Mike Gallegos.

Being able to mix varsity and junior varsity wrestlers is an asset to coach Evans. It gives more experience to younger wrestlers and helps both teams. Mike Gallegos is a senior.

We're concerned about each other if we win or lose. Wrestling is an individual sport, but the Turlock team works well together.

A Splash Before Season

"We have a good strong diving team, but we need more guys," said the diving coach Sharon Berry. "I really feel that our team may improve this year but they won't be as good as last year," said Kim Williams, diving manager. Last year's team took an impressive second place behind Merced.

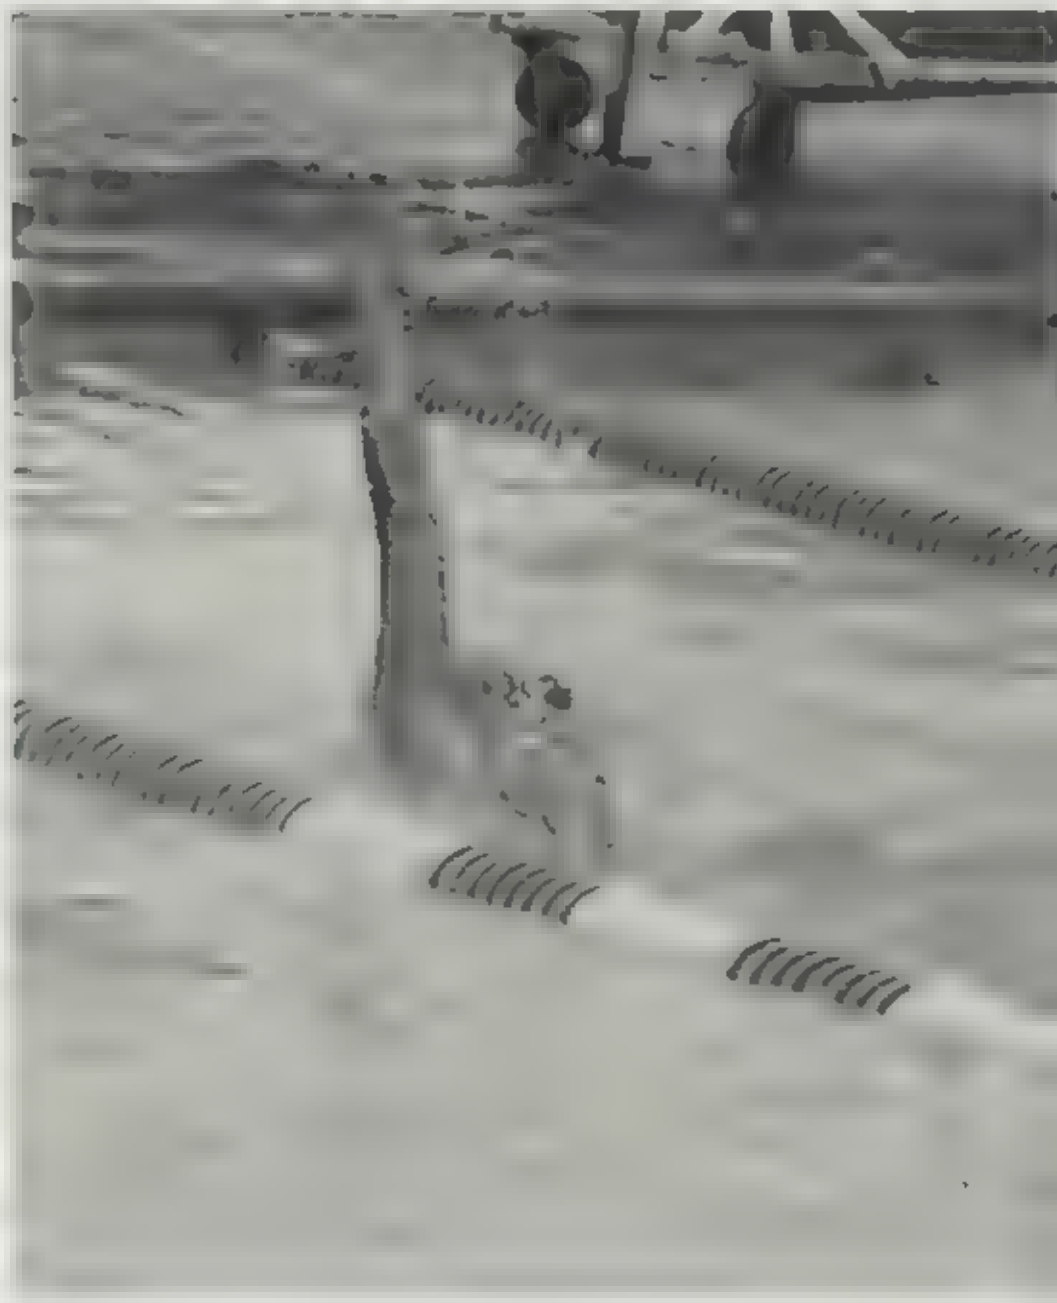

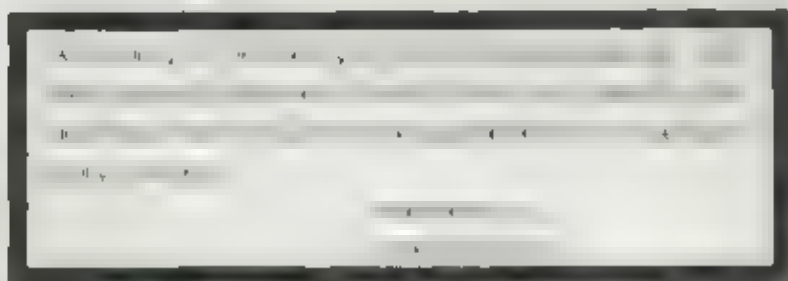

Nevertheless, in February, they were hoping for first. The team thought Merced would be their toughest match.

"I've been at it for a long time," said Kris (Ki-Ki Spike) Hawthorne. She had been diving for six years, and was an AU (college diving) diver. Three years ago she was ninth in the national pre-quality meet.

"Because I like to dive," said Robyn Nordell when explaining why she joined diving. "I wanted to be in a sport. I like the other people going out for it."

Off to a Slow Start!

As of mid January the Varsity soccer team was off to a slow start. The team was having an average season but the players knew they could do better. "There is a lot expected in the future," said Saranjit Dosangh in his second year on the varsity team. Louie Silva, a sophomore who had played Varsity since he was a freshman said, "We will start winning games soon."

The high expectations in the future are not only for this season. Championships are expected in the years to come because there were three sophomores on the team who did quite well. The sophomores were Louie Silva, Gary Ussery and Glenn Newsum. Bob Winters, the head coach, is really excited about the next few years.

The Will To Win

Because of the loss of two starters, we've had to really work hard on our offense," stated Coach Sreeley. Mixing the new with the old players, the varsity girls team has worked hard for a winning season.

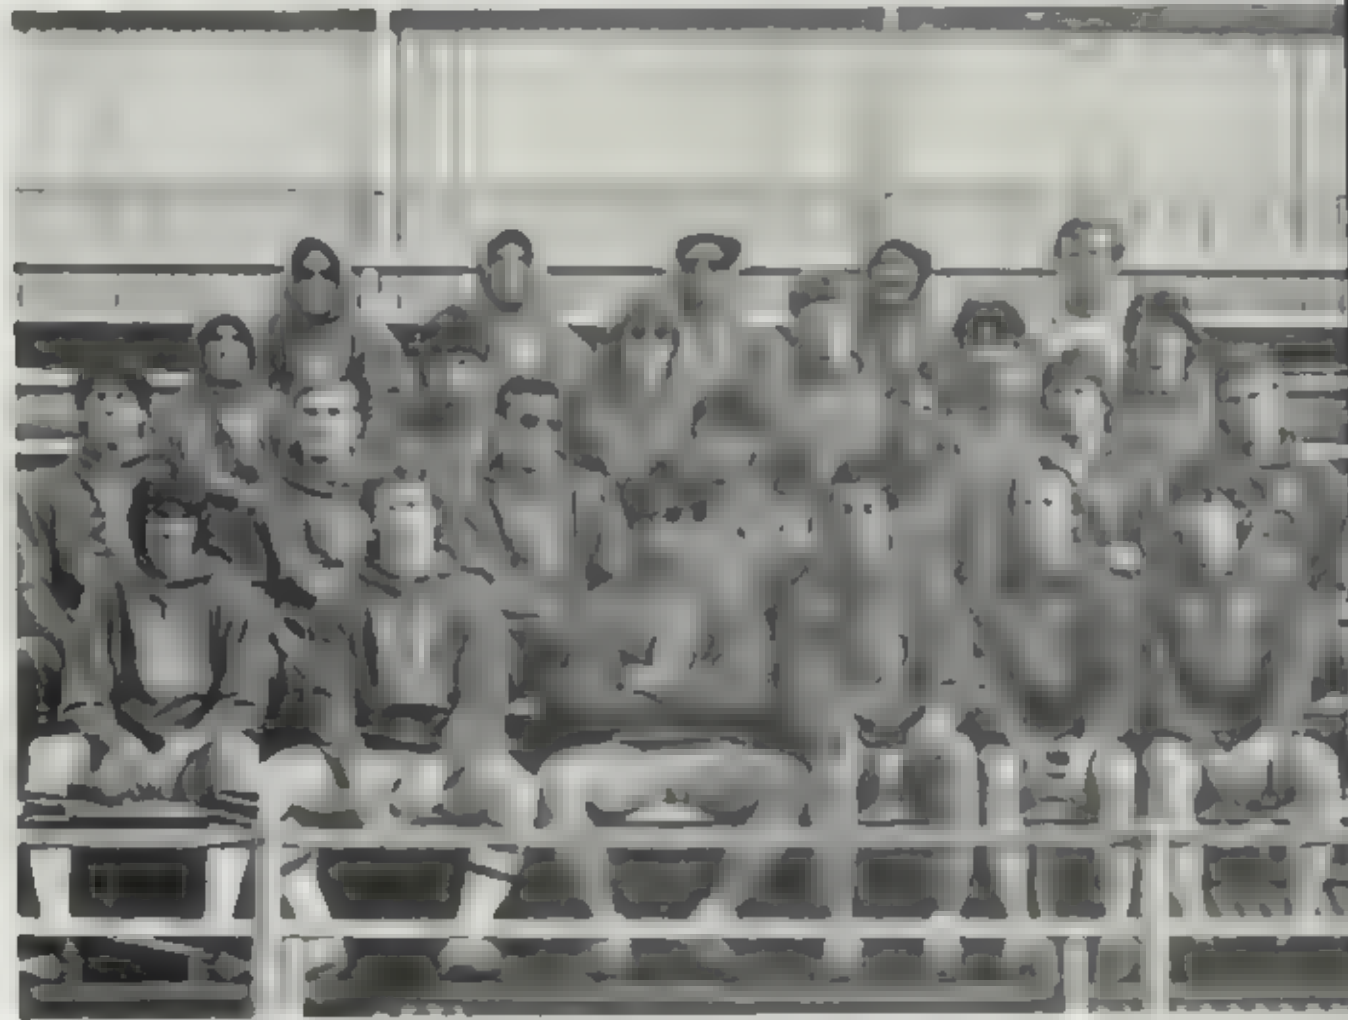

With a record of 3 and 5, "We feel we need to put together and be a team," responded Lori R. Cole in reply. To help the girls work better together, they practice many hours a week. Passing the ball, drilling plays, taking shots, and a lot of running all help the team to be more effective.

There is nothing unusual about a team who wants to win, but as Shelly Dahlquist stated, "We just want to beat Beyer."

Track Teams Compete to Win

The track and field teams from the local schools competed in a series of meets over the past few weeks. The girls' team had a particularly successful season, winning several individual and relay events. The boys' team also showed great improvement throughout the season. The track coach, Mr. [Name], praised the dedication and hard work of all the athletes. The teams will continue to practice and compete in upcoming meets, aiming for even greater success.

The basketball team has been very successful this year. They have won many games and are now in the playoffs. The team is very talented and hardworking. They have a great coach and a great team spirit. They are looking forward to winning the championship.

VARSITY BASEBALL

Hitting New Highs

Starting off their season with an impressive win, the Varsity Baseball team was on its way to success. Harvey Gonzales, a senior, has been playing baseball since he was a child. He wants to take conference this year. We have the ability and desire to do it, so watch.

With talented players and an exceptional coach, the team is looking forward to a successful season. The team is excited to represent the school and to compete at the highest level.

"I think we play better than we look," says Harvey Gonzales. "Because there are usually a lot of students and parents watching, we want to win for them." Gonzales had a different opinion. "It really doesn't matter where I play. Most of the time, I play my hardest wherever I play." Most of the team's success can be attributed to the hard work and dedication of the players and the coaching staff.

SOFTBALL

A Season of Youth

The softball season was a season of youth, a season of growth and learning. The players, all young women, spent many hours on the field, practicing their skills and working together as a team. The coaches, experienced and dedicated, provided guidance and support throughout the season. The players' hard work and dedication were rewarded with a successful season, culminating in a championship win. The softball season was a season of many memories, both on and off the field. The players' friendships and the coaches' mentorship will be remembered for years to come.

Onto Newer and Better Things

Decisions about college are perhaps the most important choices a person will make in his or her lifetime. The location, climate, quality of school, and economic feasibility are just a few elements that the graduating senior has to deal with. Just getting accepted to a state college is becoming increasingly difficult and once one is accepted financial aid is not always readily available. A college education, besides being expensive, is very hard to get.

Students graduating from THS are lucky to have a state college right here in town yet many did not choose to utilize the institution. They strived for independence and leaving home for college was an amiable excuse to UC Davis, because it has a good veterinary program, something that Stanislaus State did not offer. Krater, Mary, who wants to be a nurse, could not make up her mind as to where to go and of course she wasn't sure where she would be accepted but by January she had chosen UC Santa Barbara. Perhaps, if the University of Peabody Sound could have easily been blessed with her presence. Many people were hoping to go to UC Santa Barbara for its beautiful campus and to Fresno State for its outstanding view of the Central Valley, but Markus Pacheco decided on California State University. I was a bit surprised in that exactly your typical reason but at least he decided a major, which brings up another point.

With the OXX on JC, many more undecided for those who wanted to attend certain colleges in the JC system, they had to decide a major because many campuses were impacted. The problem with deciding a major is that if one changes his mind after taking a class, the money is wasted. With OXX explained, I am planning on going to Stanislaus because it's cheaper than most, and after I'm finished with my G.E. general education, I will decide where to transfer.

For those who could either not afford a major college or get accepted and still wanted to go, Alameda JC was the popular choice.

Junior Officers Take Over

Guided by the skillful and responsible officers of the Junior Class, the Junior Class itself. "Right now I think we have to just wait for something," said President Ayers. "Something is the President will be looking for a good one. The Junior Class is trying to make a good one."

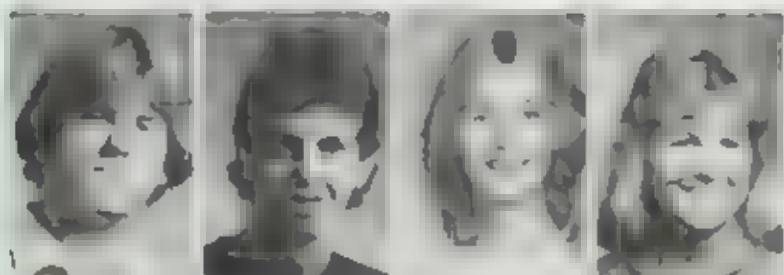

President Ayers stated, "I do not single out any of our officers. As far as accomplishments, treasurer Rocky is positive. Our float was good. We should not be afraid to try new things."

Beyond Tomorrow

Alone

In a world of illusions
Never finding a friend
Forever wandering in lost memories

Not living, nor dead
Watching but not seeing Listening but not comprehending
Speaking but not being heard

Love is forgotten Happiness was never had
Hope is unknown

Nature Freedom

Nature freedom
of running streams
growing flowers
and falling leaves
Calm tranquility and nature silence is more beautiful than all and violence

Brilliant images can be found along a stream
and then you will think it is like your dream
You will forget all the pain and hurting violence when you sit and think in silence
But this is not confusion nor loneliness
It's just plain happiness

Maria Monares

Broken Hearted

A gentle drop of the morning dew
Sets my heart afire
Scent of clover
in a misty meadow refreshes my only desire to be set free of the unholy chains that bind my wrist and chain my heart
So love may not come my way again

How To Avoid Senioritis

The way you avoid senioritis is to get it early. It is a good idea if you get it in the tenth grade. To most people that is the sophomore level.

If you don't have senioritis yet, I think the easiest way to prevent this is to become a nerd. Everyone get senioritis, the only thing you can do is to make the best out of it. I myself have had senioritis for at least a year before this. The way I deal with the problem is to pass all of my classes with a "C" or better without doing any of the homework.

Ted Ayers

Senioritis

How will I avoid senioritis? Well, let me tell you, I've had this deadly disease ever since my freshman year and it seems to get worse every year. I try to avoid it the best I can, but somehow I can never get rid of it.

I guess the way people get senioritis, including myself, is that they get too involved with other things and do not have time to do their homework first. After awhile this becomes habit forming and before long all control will be lost for good. The only theory that I have been able to come up with to get rid of it is to just keep telling yourself that school is more important than to slack off, because what one makes of their high school years will determine one's future.

Sherry Burgess

Senioritis

When one comes across a specimen who has symptoms of laziness and a feeling of being the almighty, one must conclude that this is a Senior. It is a sad thing, senioritis, but it can be controlled with proper procedures, but hardly ever can it be completely avoided.

Symptoms are swelling of the head and chest. Temporary amnesia, often unable to remember time class begins, where his locker is, and cramping of the fingers. This usually develops into paralysis that makes it impossible to complete written assignments. Allergies to alarm clocks, freshmen, detention, and first period class. Some even display mental diseases such as delusions of grandeur.

Avoiding senioritis is difficult and almost impossible. One way is to graduate after the junior year. Then start seriously thinking about the future. This is quite depressing though. If entering the twelfth grade, try to either forget it is the last year of high school or take ROP 1-6th periods (highly recommended.) Work experience could be added to the schedule a few periods. Make as many donut holes as possible and do anything to forget about the beach, the beer, and the opposite sex. Anyone with great will power and determination can do this.

When a senior gets too far into this devastating disease, he may have to pay a visit to his counselor, who will bring him back down to the harsh reality that the world does not revolve around him.

Senioritis is one of the funniest illnesses everyone gets, from nerds to the varsity quarterback. There is not a thing wrong with thinking you are the greatest thing to ever walk this earth. Although, we can all say, "Thank goodness!" when it is all over.

Angie Taylor

Senioritis

Attention! There is an epidemic spreading through high school, U.S.A. Very contagious. Indeed. It is very dangerous to both the mental and physical healths of the young people involved. The disease . . . senioritis.

All over the nation seniors are going insane, deciding what colleges to attend, what careers to pursue, DECISIONS. DECISIONS. DECISIONS!!! Fear is racing through the blood of the majority of seniors. Fear of the big world, the bad world. Financial and economic pressures are hammering down on the seniors. Where to find jobs, and how to get money for . . . Dares! My gosh, they have social lives to maintain too, agghh!

Physically, senioritis is dangerous, because seniors become lazy, they do not do anything unless it pertains to that is right . . . fun. But one other reason it is physically dangerous is because parents begin beating their children out of fits of frustration, even though some seniors are able to bear their parents because they are so big.

Some seniors, more than the majority, become big-headed. In this it means being snotty, more egotistical than before. Now the seniors can terrorize the freshmen by trash canning them and by threatening their lives unless they cheer for the seniors.

Finally, there are the memories. Usually, normal people think of the "Happy times." But not seniors with senioritis. They remember the bad times, the sad times, the times most people would choose to forget. Seniors visit old haunts, and say good bye to old friends and at the end of their last year, there is the chance to dance the last dance at the junior senior prom, where seniors leave senioritis at home for the evening.

There are precautions, though, to prevent getting senioritis. For mental precautionary measures there is one that quickly comes to mind. They should kick back, take off their shoes and relax. They should not think of the pressures until the day before they have to make the "BIG DECISION." For physical precautions, they could tighten their schedule. Fill it with things to keep them busy so that they won't get lazy. And last but not least, they should try to remember when they were a freshman. Maybe that will help their attitude towards the freshman. Probably not, but it is a try. Oh, and by the way, to this year's seniors, congratulations. May senioritis be the rage next year too!

Unicorns

Unicorns, golden and white
Are lovely things, so shiny and bright
I wish that I could have my own
To go for walks and take it home
We all know unicorns are never seen
Except in our minds during our dreams.

Moonlit Beach

Lying in a moonlit beach I reminisce about the romantic times we used to spend together
We would lie here watching the falling sunsets slowly perish beyond the hillside
Gazing while the flaming moon arise
I could feel the frantic, intriguing, anxiety dancing within myself
I sensed he felt the same
We both stare into each other's eyes
He stares as if he is looking straight through me. Like he could tell my innermost thoughts
And he could
We kiss passionately
I wish to never let go. To keep holding on
I feel all so reassuringly secure when I am with him
Finally I get in touch with reality and find out, I have to let go
I can not live in memories any longer
For he is gone forever
It will be no more

Delayne Gordon

The years to come will open your door something you should never try to ignore
 Pick a career and start it right
 Study by day, sleep by night
 School will be fun just wait and see
 If you try real hard to average a B
 You will enjoy your future years
 Full of memories and full of tears
 There will be good times along with the bad
 Some will make you happy and some will make you sad
 The future years will help you out To find what life is really about

True Love

True love is when we are together or even when we are apart

Whether we are distant or very close in heart

True love is when we are happy outside and inside too

True love yes, I am sure is when I am with you

Leanne Brown

MEMORIES

The memories of you I have are really true
 I sit and think and wonder why I'm not with you

When you told me you didn't want me I did not know what to do
 I told you I didn't want memories that I wanted you

You told me it was over but I thought it could not be true
 I sat and cried and wondered why this happened to you, to make you not want me the way I wanted you

I thought you would never leave me the way you made me feel but this is how it ended cause it wasn't really true

Carolyn Daniels

The bell rings and it is time to go home for the weekend. We close down the shop and put the tools away. Then we go into the office to get our pay checks. And then, as I hold the money in my hands a thought comes into mind. When I was poor back in my home country Portugal. The crowded streets and the grassy fields. But even pretty as it was, it did not put money in our pockets. Then I snap out of it, still feeling homesick but not with sorrow.

Real World

This image shows a single page from a musical manuscript book. It features five horizontal staves, each consisting of five lines. The staves are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There is no handwritten or printed notation on the staves; they are completely blank. The paper has a slightly aged appearance with some minor discoloration and faint smudges. The edges of the page are visible, showing it's part of a bound volume.

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions, including sales, purchases, and expenses. It emphasizes the need for a systematic approach to record-keeping, such as using a ledger or accounting software, to ensure that all financial data is properly documented and organized.

2. The second part of the document focuses on the importance of regular reconciliation. This involves comparing the company's internal records with external statements, such as bank statements or supplier invoices, to identify any discrepancies or errors. Regular reconciliation helps to ensure the accuracy of the financial records and allows for the timely identification and correction of mistakes.

3. The third part of the document discusses the importance of budgeting and financial planning. It highlights the need to set realistic financial goals and create a budget that outlines the expected income and expenses for a given period. By adhering to the budget, the company can better manage its resources and ensure that it is on track to meet its financial objectives.

4. The fourth part of the document addresses the importance of maintaining proper documentation for all financial transactions. This includes keeping receipts, invoices, and other supporting documents for a sufficient period of time to provide evidence in the event of an audit or dispute. Proper documentation is essential for ensuring the integrity and reliability of the financial records.

5. The fifth part of the document discusses the importance of regular financial reporting. This involves preparing and reviewing financial statements, such as the balance sheet, income statement, and cash flow statement, on a regular basis. Regular reporting allows the company to monitor its financial performance and make informed decisions based on the latest data.

6. The sixth part of the document focuses on the importance of maintaining accurate cash flow records. Cash flow is a critical component of a company's financial health, and it is essential to track it closely to ensure that there is always enough cash on hand to cover operating expenses. Accurate cash flow records also help to identify potential cash flow problems before they become serious.

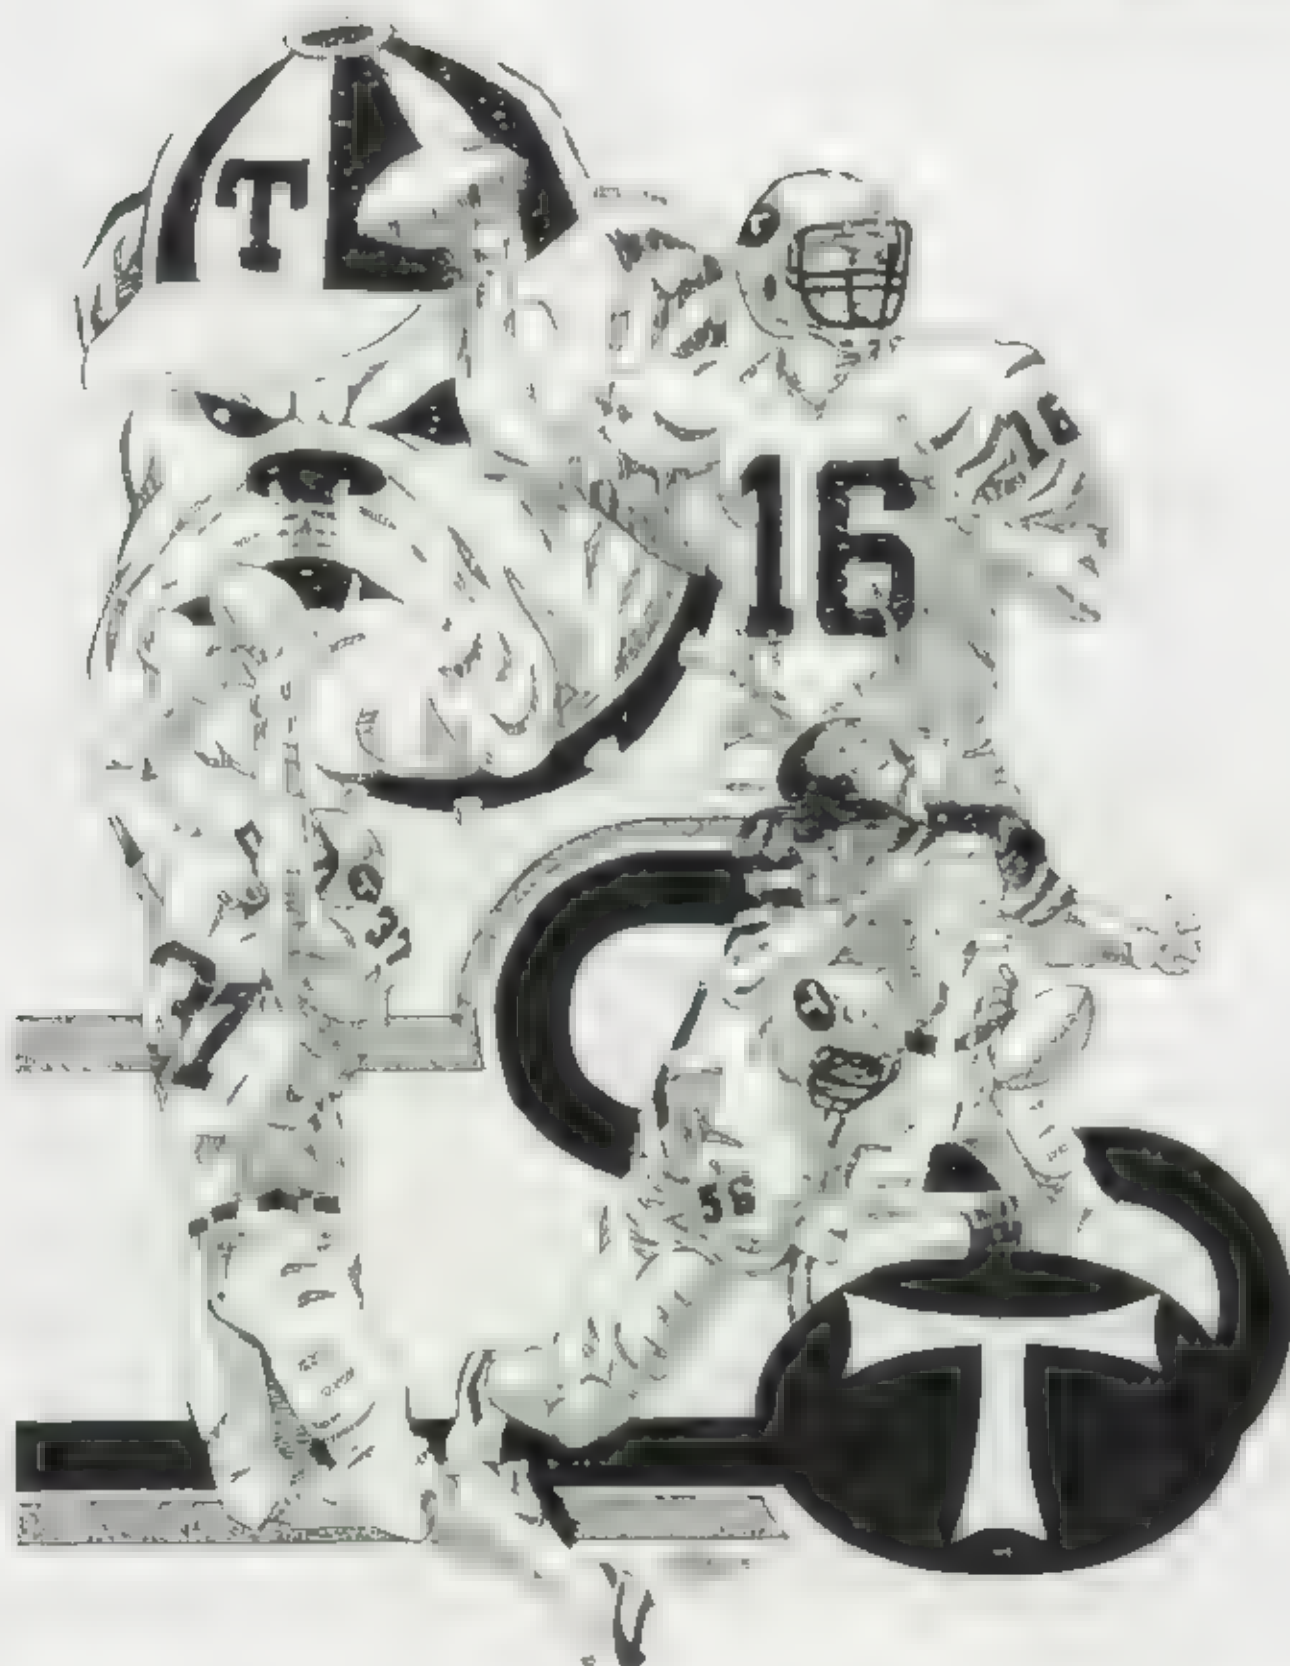

7. The seventh part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate inventory records. Inventory is a valuable asset for many businesses, and it is essential to track it accurately to ensure that the company is not overstocked or understocked. Accurate inventory records also help to identify potential inventory shrinkage or theft.

8. The eighth part of the document addresses the importance of maintaining accurate payroll records. Payroll is a significant expense for most businesses, and it is essential to track it accurately to ensure that employees are paid correctly and on time. Accurate payroll records also help to identify potential payroll errors or discrepancies.

9. The ninth part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate tax records. Taxes are a major financial obligation for businesses, and it is essential to keep accurate records of all tax-related transactions, including sales tax, income tax, and payroll taxes. Accurate tax records help to ensure that the company is in compliance with all applicable tax laws and regulations.

10. The tenth part of the document focuses on the importance of maintaining accurate financial statements. Financial statements provide a comprehensive overview of a company's financial performance and position, and it is essential to ensure that they are accurate and reliable. Accurate financial statements are essential for making informed decisions and for providing transparency to stakeholders.

ANTHONY E. NAGY D.D.

During the 1984-85 school year something quite "Out of the Ordinary" happened in Turlock. News Enough in fact gave Turlock mentioned on all three major Sacramento news programs. The event filled the front page of the Turlock Journal for days and divided the town in half. It all stemmed from a book called Show Me! a children's sex educational manual published in 1974 containing pages of photos showing young children and adults. Most of the material was so obscene that the Journal could not report it completely. The authors of the text, Will McBride and Helga Fleschauer Hardt, defended their book by stating in the prologue: "We are of the opinion that only an explicit and realistic presentation of sex can spare children fear."

But the consensus of many Turlock citizens was that the book was pure trash. Debbi Avila and her husband Robert were the organizers of the Turlock Action Committee, a group formed to ban the book. Some members of the group even called for a panel to censor all books purchased by Stanislaus County Library on Judy West. In opposition, Marilyn Borges led the Defenders of the First Amendment, who felt that the issue was not the book.

The group feared that censorship would lead to the collapse of freedoms. After much to do, the controversy was put to rest by the sudden disappearance of the book, censorship by terrorism.

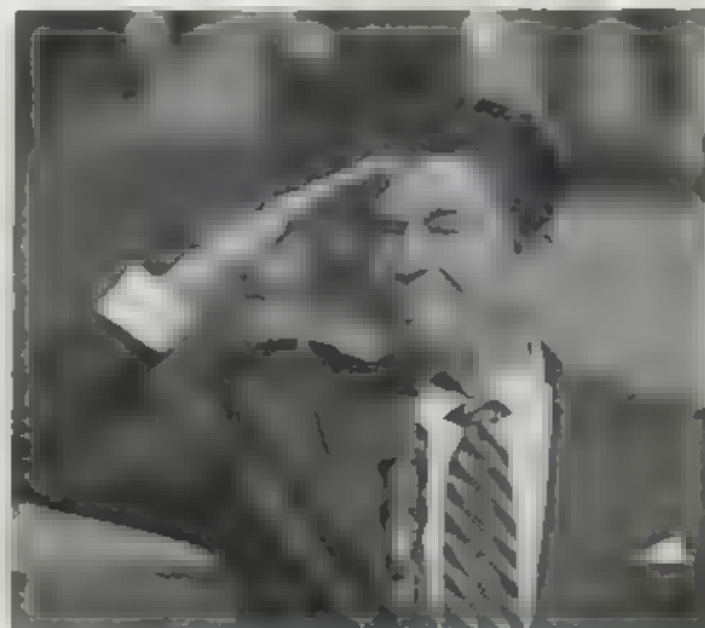

Outside of Turlock it seemed to be business as usual. Everyday something new was happening and little-known people became household words overnight. Vanessa Williams, became the first black Miss America, and the first Miss America to resign. Miss Williams also had the dubious honor of being the first Miss America to appear in Penthouse magazine.

"When I think about Turlock High, I don't think about the new building; I think about the old building."

1. H_2O is a polar molecule. The oxygen atom is more electronegative than the hydrogen atoms, so it pulls the shared electrons closer to itself. This creates a partial negative charge (δ^-) on the oxygen and partial positive charges (δ^+) on the hydrogens.

2. H_2O has a bent molecular geometry. The oxygen atom has two lone pairs of electrons, which repel the $\text{H}-\text{O}-\text{H}$ bonds, resulting in a bond angle of approximately 104.5° .

3. The combination of polarity and bent shape gives water a net dipole moment. The partial negative charges on the oxygen side and partial positive charges on the hydrogen side do not cancel out.

4. Water molecules are attracted to each other by hydrogen bonds. These are relatively weak intermolecular forces, but they are strong enough to give water its unique properties, such as high boiling point and surface tension.

IN LOVING MEMORY

I was the only person on the Canon staff who knew Freddy so when I was first assigned to do the story on him, I was going to make it a purely factual statement about his life. I was going to say things like when he was born, what his hobbies were, mention his favorite classes etc. Then I began to think about my friendship with Freddy. I realized that he was just too good to have that kind of story written about him. He deserved more than a news story, something special.

Freddy wasn't an ordinary guy. Everyone who knew him could vouch for that. "He really broke the stereotype for me," stated English teacher David Jack. "He just came in here, did his work and maintained a "B" average," he concluded.

Freddy certainly worked hard and because of his effort, defied the odds by striving to make a successful life for himself. Had this most unfortunate accident not taken place, Freddy would have been the first person in his family to graduate. I'll always remember the pride in his eyes when he told me that. I'll also remember how much he wanted to be a cartoonist too. I hardly ever saw him not drawing. I think those are the only two things that kept him going sometimes.

The title song "The Long and Winding Road" by the Beatles reminds me a lot of Freddy. He almost made it and it seems so damned unfair that he didn't. In an essay Freddy once wrote, "...astronauts seem to enjoy taking risks and challenges to explore space and the moon...to be able to look back and see the circular and colorful earth."

Freddy is the astronaut now, looking back at the people who love him and miss him. I'm sure he'll also be very happy to see that he was chosen student of the month for January 1985.

With the ending of this story I (as well as others) will stop the mourning for Freddy. I'll move for the next stage, by following his example and face the "risks and challenges" life has for me. With every new step I take and success I conquer, I'll remember Freddy and in a big way will do it for him.

Dye Freddy, we love you.

This story was written in January by Celeste Contreras for the Canon.

Student of the month

Freddy Quintero, son of Prudencia and Delino Quintero of Delhi, won't see this student of the-month writeup and picture in the Journal. The Turlock High School senior died in an automobile accident on Christmas morning.

Freddy's teachers have awarded him the honor posthumously, they say, not because of his death but because of his academic promise and because he was highly thought of on (the THS) campus.

Freddy's teachers called him a unique student who constantly strove to improve himself. He often asked to move into classes that were more challenging than the ones he was in, then earned all A's and B's in the tougher classes.

He was a member of the Art Club and had plans to enter Cal State-Sanistlaus after he graduated.

His friends and teachers said they felt Freddy would have had a successful educational and professional future. They are sorry he has been denied that future and they say they will miss him.
